“PSYCHOLOGICAL DISORDERS AND THE SPIRITUAL PERSPECTIVE OF THE QUR’AN AND THE SUNNAH’”

Keynote Address at The Symposium on Psychological Disabilities
Organised by Counselling Centre, IIUM

(T)hree government psychosocial hotlines received 11,791 calls for assistance from March 25 to late last month [October 2020] at the peak of the COVID-19 outbreak in the country. The New Straits Times had reported that half the calls made in those five months – were about issues related to emotional support and counselling for stress, anxiety and loss of hope....The pandemic has disrupted the delivery of mental health services globally... 1. INTRODUCTION

With the COVID-19 pandemic creating havoc throughout the world, one can expect more and more people will experience serious psychological and mental health issues. This era of political chaos, social disintegration, climate and environmental emergencies, increase in the phenomena of social ills and moral decadence has also produced, through the social media, over-flooding of false information, unethical thought, immorality and filth disguised as new knowledge. Consequently contemporary societies including Muslim societies – especially in urban areas – are losing the traditional moral compass. Already there are reports of increase in trends toward self-harm or self-injury as well as incidents of suicide or attempted suicide in Malaysia today. With the increase in mental health issues among Muslim students or adults, it is crucial that Muslim practitioners, psychologists, psychotherapists and counsellors explore the Islamic religious and spiritual resources from the Qur'an and the Sunnah of the Prophet (may the peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) to find ways and means of addressing and overcoming various problems of mental and emotional distress: depression, anxiety, stress, paranoia, excessive fear or excessive anger. They will discover from the Qur'an and the Sunnah approaches, solutions and answers to several issues of mental health in today’s world which they would not get from mainstream secular or conventional Western mental health institutions or experts in psychology and psychiatry.

Mental well-being problems, we are told, are usually caused by big life crises, such as serious or life-threatening illnesses, bereavement, or job-related crisis arising from imminent redundancy. We have little or no control over such crises or emergencies, but it is our ways or habits of responding to such critical situations in life that will determine the state of our mental well-being. This is where our level of resilience, that is our ability to cope with adverse circumstances, is crucial. For Muslim youths and adults who are prone to suffer problems of psychological disorder in these turbulent times we would advise them to strengthen their level of physical, moral, intellectual, emotional, social and spiritual resilience not by relying or depending upon secularism-based or materialism-based psychological or psychiatric solutions as provided by Western institutions or traditions, but by resorting to the God-given guidelines provided in the Qur’an and the normative traditions of the Prophet (s.a.w.).

There are many symptoms of poor mental health such as:

- being unable to concentrate;
- feeling depressed;
- confused for an extended period;
- having excessive fears or worries;
- undergoing extreme mood changes;
- struggling with feelings of guilt;
- wanting to withdraw from friends and activities;
- not having high or normal energy level;
- wanting to cause self-harm or self-injury;
- having problems going to sleep not because of insomnia;
- and, worst of all, entertaining or feeling like wanting to commit suicide.

The above symptoms of poor mental well-being could be triggered or brought about by any or a combination of several factors such as:

- unemployment or losing one’s job;
- grave illness or death of someone dear to use;
- childhood abuse, neglect, or past trauma;
The above-mentioned symptoms of poor mental health obviously require proper and effective treatment which could be in the form of a) religio-spiritual therapy, or b) psychological or psychiatric remedies, or c) medication from modern or traditional medicine, or d) meditation, or e) counselling sessions, or a combination of two or more of those methods of treatment. Each of the above approaches has its strengths and limitations, but in this essay, we would like to focus on the spiritual approach to mental well-being as derived from the worldview and teachings of the Qur'an.

The Islamic spiritual approach and method, in principle, look at human emotional, psychological, social or mental issues from a holistic perspective whereby the material, social and emotional problems faced by human beings are understood or analysed not only from the external perspectives but also from their connections with the inner dimensions of spirituality, namely the impact from the conditions of the spiritual heart (qalb). Every dimension of human life or personality has its own specific ways of maintaining well-being, no doubt, but the foundation of each of them is the religio-spiritual foundation of faith (īmān) in The Compassionate Creator, Master and Sustainer of all that exist, Allah S.W.T. Thus, by maintaining sound, balanced and proper relationship with the Compassionate Creator and Sustainer, as well as the normative legacy (Sunnah) of Prophet Muḥammad (s.a.w.), the Muslim Believer (Mu’min) develops the proper attitudes, perspectives and behaviours via-s-vis Allah S.W.T., Prophet Muhammad (s.a.w.), religions other than Islam, the family, fellow human beings, organisations, cultures, societies, states, nature, life and oneself. It is important to realise that the correct and strong spiritual connection with the Living and Compassionate Creator and Sustainer and His comprehensive guidance in the Qur’an and the Sunnah provide the Believer and human beings correct and clear answers regarding fundamental questions of human existence which independent or secularised human reason cannot provide, such as:

a) How did human beings come into existence, and if they have been created by God, what is the nature of this God?
b) What is the true nature and true identity of human beings?
c) What are the true purpose and meaning of human beings’ existence and what is their ultimate destiny?
d) If there is life after death, what is the nature of this life and how do human beings prepare for life in the hereafter?
e) What is the highest and most authoritative source of guidance for human beings to achieve wellbeing in this world and wellbeing in the Hereafter?
f) What are the purpose and meaning of the universe, the world, the life of this transitory world (Dunyā) and nature?
g) What are the conceptions of true success and true failure, true gain and true loss, true happiness and true misery?, and what are the correct means of achieving true happiness and of averting true misery and failure in the Hereafter?
h) What is the meaning of inner peace and harmony?, and what is the divinely-prescribed way or method of achieving inner peace and harmony for the Believers?
i) What are the rights, roles and responsibilities of human beings as Allah’s servants, vicegerents, Believers and the Community of Believers (Ummah Islāmiyyah or Ummah Muḥammadiyyah) in the worldview of the Qur’ān and the Sunnah?
j) Who are the real adversaries or enemies of the Believers, externally and internally?
k) What is the best system of life and type of civilisation for Believers and the Muslim Ummah?

2. ISSUES OF MENTAL- PSYCHOLOGICAL HEALTH IN IIUM
We believe that IIUM is not entirely free of cases of depression, anxiety, schizophrenia, LGBTQ trends, suicidal tendencies, addiction to pornography, substance abuse and drug-addiction, self-harm, atheistic or agnostic thinking, secularistic dualistic behaviour, paranoia, xenophobia, racial prejudices, among the students both local and international. Lecturers in psychology and psychiatry, counsellors, academic advisors, Mahallah principals and deans need to understand the different causes and backgrounds of mental/psychological problems or illnesses by:

- 1. Being objective in trying to understand the real causes;
- 2. Being patient and non-judgemental;
- 3. Be hopeful and optimistic while giving counselling or advice or guidance;
- 4. Have empathy, be caring and do not expect quick results or success;
- 5. Be forgiving, but convey the right teachings of the Qur’an and the Sunnah
- 6. Be compassionate and never give up hope and supplication to Allah SWT.

We should impart to the students or non-students the conviction that Allah S.W.T. loves to save His servants who have transgressed His limits:

- ۞ قُلْ يٰعِبَادِي الَّذِيْنَ اَسْرَفُوْا عَلٰٓی اَنْفُسِهِمْ لََ تَقْنَطُوْا مِنْ رَّحْمَةِ

اللهِ ۗاِنَّ اللّٰهَ يَغْفِرُ الذُّنُوْبَ جَمِيْعًا ۗاِنَّهُوَ الْغَفُوْرُ الرَّحِيْمُ (الزمر : ۳۵)

Say, "O My servants who have transgressed against themselves [by sinning], do not despair of the mercy of Allah. Indeed, Allah forgives all sins. Indeed, it is He who is the Forgiving, the Merciful." (Q. al-Zumar 39: 53)
We need, therefore, to be gentle, not hard or harsh, in dealing with people having symptoms of psychological disorder. Remember how Allah S.W.T. reminds the Prophet (s.a.w.):

- فِيْمَا رَحْمَةٍ مِنَ اللَّهِ لَنْتَ لَهُمْ وَلَوْ كُنتَ فَظًا غَلِيظَ الْقَلْبِ لَأَفْضُوا مِنْ حَوْلِكَ فَاعْفُ عَنْهُمْ وَاسْتَغْفِرْ لَهُمْ وَشَاوِرْهُمْ فِي الأمْرِ فَإِذَا عَزَمْتَ فَتَوَكَّلْ عَلَى اللَّهِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ يُحِبُّ الْمُتَوَكِّلِينَ (95:1)

Only through the Divine Mercy have you (O Muhammad) been able to deal with your followers so gently. If you had been stern and hard-hearted, they would all have deserted you a long time ago. Forgive them and ask God to forgive (their sins) and consult with them in certain matters. But, when you reach a decision, trust God. God loves those who trust Him (Q. Āl-ʾImrān 3:159)

We must share the Qur’anic and Sunnatic principle that Allah SWT loves gentleness:

- عن أبي هُرَيْرَةَ عَنِ النَّبِيِِّ صَلَّى اللَُّّٰ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ قَالَ إِنَّ اللََّّٰ رَفِيقٌ يُحِبُّ الرِِّفْقَ وَيُعْطِي عَلَى الرِِّفْقِ مَا لََ يُعْطِي عَلَى الْعُنْفِ

Abu Hurairah reported:

The Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, said, “Verily, Allah is gentle and He loves gentleness. He grants reward for gentleness what is not given for harshness.”

It is highly recommended that we reflect on and share the relevant hadiths with others which highlight how much Allah SWT loves His servants who want to return to Him. As Muslim academics, psychologists or counsellors, we ought to remember and inform our students who are having mental well-being problems the well-known hadith quoted below that Allah SWT runs to His servants while they walk to him:

- عن أَبِي ذَرٍِّ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللَّهِ صَلَّى اللَُّّٰ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ يَقُولُ اللَّهُ عَزَّ وَجَلَّ مَنْ جَاءَ بِالْحَسَنَةِ فَلَهُ عَشْرُ أَمْثَالِهَا وَأَزِيدُ وَمَنْ جَاءَ بِالسَّيِِّئَةِ فَجَزَاؤُهُ سَيِِّئَةٌ مِثْلُهَا من جاء بالحسنات فلله عشر أمثالها وأزيد ومن جاء بالسيئة فجرياً ها سيئته مثلها
Abu Dharr reported: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings be upon him, said, “Allah Almighty says: Whoever comes with a good deed will have the reward of ten like it and even more. Whoever comes with an evil deed will be recompensed for one evil deed like it or he will be forgiven. Whoever draws close to me by the length of a hand, I will draw close to him by the length of an arm. Whoever draws close to me the by length of an arm, I will draw close to him by the length of a fathom. Whoever comes to me walking, I will come to him running. Whoever meets me with enough sins to fill the earth, not associating any idols with me, I will meet him with as much forgiveness.” (Source: Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim 2687)

To the Muslim youth and adults, including IIUM students and staff, who may be experiencing some problems of mental well-being, the present COVID-19 pandemic provides the best justification for them to find the right and lasting solutions to their problems of psychological trauma or spiritual illness -- which are manifesting in poor state of mental well-being -- from what the Islamic paradigm of psycho-spiritual well-being can offer (Hooman Keshavarzi 2018). As for the cures or remedies of specific psychological or mental well-being problems or ailments, the Islamic spiritual approach as embodied in the tradition of taṣawwuf (science of Islamic spirituality or Sufism) has developed a variety of psycho-spiritual preventive and therapeutic treatments, ranging from the simplest to the most complex remedies.

We know from the worldview of the Qur’an that human well-being as a whole is to be developed and nurtured through strengthening, enriching and refining the spiritual bond (īmān) with Allah S.W.T. and following what He and His human Prophets and Messengers (peace and blessings be upon all of them), have taught regarding the right ways and means for human beings to attain the optimum physical, emotional, intellectual, social and spiritual well-being and positive growth. By strengthening, enriching and refining the spiritual bond (īmān) with Allah S.W.T., the servant of Allah S.W.T. is directly and individually connected with his/her Compassionate Creator and Caring Master. Whenever he or she faces a personal problem of mental well-being or other types of problems, the direct and immediate spiritual connection with the Compassionate Creator and Master must be utilised to the fullest, because it is only He who can solve the most difficult or complex problems faced by His servants or Believers, if they turn to Him with sincerity, certitude and absolute faith in His healing powers.

Bearing in mind that human life is full of trials, tribulations and problems, both the Qur'an and the Sunnah of Prophet Muhammad (s.a.w.) caution and remind Believers that the integrity and purity of Islamic spirituality should not be undermined, weakened, corrupted or destroyed by spiritual-moral “diseases” (amrāḍ), insinuations of the Devil/Satan (Shāṭān) and the delusions of fleeting pleasures of worldly life (ghūrūr al-ḥayāt al-dunyā).

The diseases of the heart includes polytheism, unbelief, hypocrisy, insincerity, arrogance, pride, self-conceit, greed, miserliness, jealousy, rancour, envy, ostentation, craving for popularity, status and public praise, love of wealth, and love of worldly pleasures. Many of these diseases (or reprehensible character traits) are the deep-rooted causes of ethical, social, economic, political and environmental injustices, evils, vices and crises in contemporary societies and civilisations. Therefore the scope of Islamic spirituality should not be confined only to the dimension of human-God relationship -- involving the need for “purification of the soul”, nurturing of “praiseworthy morality” (akhlāq maḥmūdah) or good character traits (husn al-khuluq) and getting rid of “reprehensible morality” (akhlāq madhmūmah) or bad character traits (sūʿ al-khuluq), -- but it should be extended to the dimension of human-human and human-nature relationships which come under the generic term “good/virtuous deeds” (ʿamal ṣāliḥ).

Islamic scholars of spiritual sciences consider it a religious responsibility of every individual to cleanse the spiritual heart (tazkiyat al-nafs) of those aforementioned diseases or ailments by cultivating the spiritual virtues as well as the spiritual needs of knowing the One True God (maʿrifat Allah), and practising true repentance (taubah), internalising the values of God-consciousness (taqwā), sincerity (ḥikmah), justice (abd), abstinence (zuhd), trust in God (tawakkul), gratitude to Allah (shukr), spiritual intimacy with God (uns), love of God (mahabbatu'Llāh), spiritual contentment (qanāʿah), self-examination (muḥāsabah), contemplation
(tafakkur) and remembrance of Allah (dhikr), of death and the Hereafter. In this connection the Believers learn from the Prophetic Sunnah and the writings of well-known Islamic spiritual scholars such as al-Ghazālī(d.1111) how to control the bad influence of the carnal soul (nafs) or base desires (sing. hawā) in their hearts by means of “struggling to control the desires” (jihād al-nafs), overcoming the dangers and traps of worldly temptations (matā’ al-hayāt al-dunyā) and recognising the continuous whisperings, evil suggestions (waswasah, hamazāt) and footsteps (khūṭuwāt) of Satanic forces (see al-Ghazālī 2007)

Notwithstanding the broad scope of human-human and human-nature relationships serving as avenues of Islamic spirituality, the most important channels by which the Believers manifest their spirituality are the four “pillars of Islam”, namely the five obligatory daily prayers (ṣalāh), the giving of the obligatory poor due or alms tax (zakat), fasting (ṣaum) in the month of Ramaḍān, and performance of pilgrimage to Makkah (ḥajj) once in a lifetime for those who are capable of doing so. In addition, in order to gain spiritual proximity (taqarrub ila’Llāh) to the Compassionate and Merciful Sustainer, the pious Believers perform many supererogatory acts (sunnah or nawāfi) of prayers, fasting, performance of minor pilgrimage (‘umrah), reading or memorisation of the Qur’an and lots of charitable contributions of money, time, knowledge, wisdom, skills, energy, etc. to alleviate the needs, the sufferings and problems of the underprivileged, the needy and the marginalised in society. These are additional avenues by which the Believers actualise their spirituality (or condition of absolute faith in Allah The Most Compassionate) thus bringing them closer and closer to Him. It is important for the Muslim or Muslimah to take note that spiritual integrity and maturity in Islam is a dynamic and continuous process of spiritual-moral development in a Muslim’s personality. Islamic spirituality begins with a Muslim’s nominal submission (Islām) to Allah The Most Compassionate, and rises through the states of faith and conviction (Īmān) in Him and His teachings, followed by constant God-fearing consciousness (taqwā), beneficence and overflowing moral excellence and moral beauty (Iḥsān), and culminating in the state of love (maḥabbah) of The Compassionate Master and Sustainer and yearning for His grace and pleasure (ridwān) as well as for spiritual proximity to His Final Messenger, Prophet Muḥammad (s.a.w.) in this world and in the Hereafter.
We need to reiterate that, from the worldview of the Qur'an, the material world is not an evil place: it is a God-designated space-time and God-given opportunity for a human being to live in, to work and strive (jihād) to serve Divine purposes. It is a temporary abode, no doubt, but it is a necessary abode in which a human being is to develop into a good, righteous and virtuous human (insān șālih), to work together with fellow human beings for a safe, peaceful and bountiful environment towards establishing a virtuous society (mujtamaʿ șālih) and a virtuous civilisation (haḍārah șālihah), for the ultimate goal of serving and worshipping (ʿibādah) God sincerely, thereby earning His pleasure (ridwān) and true success and wellbeing (al-falāh) in the Hereafter.

It is important to realise that spirituality in the religion and civilisation of Islam is expressed by the Believer, not by rejecting or denying material wellbeing, but by living actively, righteously and peacefully while being fully engaged in the world as a God-obedient and God-fearing servant and vicegerent who has been entrusted by his/her Creator-Sustainer to develop it in accordance with His commandments. This means that he or she is to enjoin all that is permissible (ḥalāl), good (khair) and virtuous (maʿrūf) and to prohibit all that is bad (shari) or reprehensible (munkar) or forbidden (ḥarām). In short, his/her spiritual-ethical duty is to promote the public welfare or public good (maṣlaḥah) and prevent that which is harmful (mafsadah) or injurious to society and the environment. In this way his/her way of life and developmental efforts will be in harmony with the five fundamental objectives of the Divine Law (Maqāṣid al-Shariʿah) – the protection, preservation and growth of Islamic Religion, Life, Intellect, Progeny and Wealth.

The contemporary Muslim community throughout the world needs to be reminded that, as a religious, spiritual and ethical community, the Muslim Ummah has been given the responsibility by Allah The Most Compassionate of “enjoining all that is good and virtuous, and prohibiting all that is bad and reprehensible” (Q. 3: 104). The Muslim community is also charged by Allah S.W.T. to be “the best community brought forth for mankind” (Q. 3: 110), and to be the Ummah Wasaṭ, the Middle-Most Community which upholds Justice, Moral Excellence and Balance between the two opposites of liberality on the one hand and extremism on the other (Q. 2: 143-146). With those qualities of excellence, the Muslim community is to play the role of Witnesses (shuhadā’) for the rest of mankind in terms of implementing Allah’s commandments and injunctions.

As members of the divinely-mandated community with a sacred mission to enjoin what is good and prohibit what is bad, the Believers are primarily motivated by their faith and conviction in Allah (S.W.T.), in His Final Messenger Muhammad (s.a.w.) and in life Hereafter. It is part of their consciousness as Believers also to anticipate that the world and the whole universe will come to a cataclysmic end one day, at a time known only to the Creator-Sustainer. Nevertheless the true Believers look forward to and aspire, through their good deeds in this worldly life, for the everlasting phase of life in al-Ākhirah which provides conditions of permanent bliss and happiness for those who have succeeded in living a virtuous life of enhanced spiritual connection with and submission to The Compassionate Creator-Sustainer. The hearts of these Believers tremble and shudder at the prospect of having to live a future life of ignominy, terrible shame and utter helplessness -- devoid of Divine mercy and grace -- which will be the destiny of the rebellious and arrogant worshippers of worldly glory, power and dominance.

3. THE ISLAMIC CONCEPTION OF MAN’S SOUL IN BRIEF

A full Islamic understanding of the soul that explains the reality of its complex nature and the proper relationship of the four spiritual components of the soul, namely 1) rūḥ (spirit), 2) qalb (spiritual heart), 3) `aql (intellect), and 4) nafs (lower self) can be read from al-Ghazālī’s Book of Knowledge and Marvels of the Heart.

In the Qur’anic conception of man, every human being – Muslim or non-Muslim -- has an innately pure and good nature, fitrah, which Allah S.W.T. has created. It is spiritually connected to its Creator but it can become clouded, covered over or forgotten as a result of childhood upbringing, parental influence or environmental factors. Spiritual and moral corruption of the human self also suppresses the positive impact of the inherent goodness of the fitrah. Allah S.W.T. reveals in the Qur’ān that the human soul originates from Him and that He has endowed it with the capacity for righteousness, piety and high spiritual elevation as well as the capacity for waywardness, wickedness and deviation. But whoever takes care to nourish, clean and purify the soul will gain true wellbeing and success (falāḥ) while the one who allows it to be buried in darkness, soiled or corrupted, will be ruined (Q. Al-Shams 91: 7-10). At the centre of the self or personality is the spiritual heart (qalb) which is the spiritual centre of the person. It has the potential to turn toward the lower impulses of the soul (nafs) due to the influences of this-worldly (dunyā) distractions or temptations of Satan, resulting in increased symptoms of negative emotions or “blameworthy” (madhmūmah) characteristics, or what the Qur’an terms as “diseases” (amrāḍ) of the qalb. The qalb can also turn towards the higher, Godly nature of the Spirit (rūḥ) with acts of obedience, taqwā character and remembrance of Allah (dhikru’Llāh) and the Ākhirah. This will result in increased positive emotional and moral characteristics (akhlāq maḥmūdah) of the Believer. If he/she sustains the praiseworthy moral and spiritual qualities of a true Believer by being steadfast (istiqāmah) with the virtues of taqwā, spiritual-moral excellence (īḥsān) and love and longing (maḥabbah) for Allah’s pleasure, then it is highly likely that he/she would return to Allah S.W.T. on that Dreadful and Awesome Day of Judgement “with a sound, healthy, and purified heart” (bi-qalb salīm, Q. Al-Shu’arā’ 26: 87-89). This is one of the major aspirations of a true Believer in Islam. The good news is that this level of spiritual elevation and purification is attainable if the Believer obeys and follows the injunctions and guidance of Allah S.W.T. and His Messenger (s.a.w.), and knows how to avoid falling into the different deceptions (ghurūr) of this-worldly life, Satan and passion. Hence the “striving against the lower self” (jihād al-nafs) is regarded in Islam as “the greater jihād” in comparison to the physical or military struggle.

The duty of cleaning and purifying the self (tazkiyat al-nafs) is a fundamental religious duty of every adult Muslim. It involves a constant inner spiritual struggle of the self to overcome the ailments in the heart, with constant acts of seeking forgiveness from Allah S.W.T., true repentence to Him, remembrance of Allah S.W.T. amidst the distractions of the dunyā. The aim is to liberate oneself from the downward pull of the “evil-inciting soul” (al-nafs al-ammārah), to be at least at the level of the “blaming soul” (al-nafs al-lawwāmah), and eventually – with divine assistance – attain the level of the “the tranquil soul” or “the soul at rest” (al-nafs al-mutma’innah) (Q. Al-Fajr 89: 27-28). In this vital inner struggle, the intellect or reason (ʾaql) of the Believer has to play the positive role of strengthening, supporting and protecting the qalb from Satanic insinuations and misleading empirically- or rationally-acquired knowledge or information. The `aql of the Believer, according to the Qur’an, is not a separate or independent entity as understood in secular cultures: it is in fact the cognitive function of the qalb which is not supposed to be disconnected from the foundation of Tauhidic faith. As such the `aql of a Believer is naturally illuminated and guided by the light of divine Truth and is nourished by divine wisdom so that its divinely-connected reasoning, contemplation or logical thinking would provide the much-needed solutions to many problems in human life – solutions which do not contradict revealed truths or divine values and norms, as is the case in contemporary secular humanistic civilisation. It is for this reason that the Qur’an exhorts human beings to use of their reason, intellect and rational observation not only to appreciate the teachings of Islam but to understand the mysteries in Allah’s creation and the universe. Islam also elevates the position of God-fearing scholars (´ulamā’) and “people who possess sound reason” (Ulu’l-Albāb) because they use the cognitive function of their spiritual hearts in the proper way as enjoined by the Creator.

It is important, therefore, that we Muslims have a good understanding of the “hearts of the Believers” (“qulūb al-mu’minīn” in the Qur’an) as opposed to the hearts of the hard-core materialists, the self-deluded hypocrites, the arrogant disbelievers, the defiant atheists or the unrepentant sinners. The hearts of the Believers are hearts which are informed and guided by the knowledge and wisdom of the Qur’an and the Sunnah. These hearts inspire, motivate, strengthen and spur the Believers to greater heights of spiritual-ethical development and progress, against the tide and forces of disbelief, polytheism, corruption, anarchy, depravity, immorality, falsehood, nihilism, atheism, individualism, racism and secularism. It is these hearts (which include the intellects within them) which will help the Believers to overcome the problems of psychological disorders such as depression, anxiety, worries, excessive anger, lack of self-esteem, paranoia, etc., which are affecting more and more people in this era of uncertainty, post-normal times and COVID-19 pandemic.

The qalb as the Allah-gifted spiritual entity (al-Imām al-Ghazālī calls it “latīfah rabbāniyyah rūḥāniyyah”- a subtle spiritual entity of Divine origin) is of immense worldly and other-worldly value which we Muslims and fellow human beings need always to preserve, protect and purify from all kinds of corrupting elements, and remove all the “stains” or “rusts” of our bad deeds and bad influence of the lower self, the hawā and the al-nafs al-ammārah bi‘s-sū that incites to disobedience against religious norms and rules, immoral acts and evil deeds. Allah S.W.T. mentions in several verses of the Qur'an that human hearts are susceptible to spiritual diseases, or moral ailments, by saying: “in their hearts is a disease” (Q. al-Baqarah 2: 10; al-Mā‘idah 5: 52; al-Anfāl 8: 49; al-Muddaththir 74: 31) and similar verses which have been analysed in many Sufi works. The heart as a dynamic spiritual core of human personality can therefore be “healthy” (Q. al-Shu‘arā 26: 88-89); be “tested” (Q. al-Ḥujurāt 49: 3); be “blind” (Q. al-Ḥajj 22: 46); be “hard”, (al-Ḥajj 22: 53); be “locked” or “full of rust” (Q. al-Muṭaffifīn 83: 14; al-Baqarah 2: 7); “follow the whispers” of Satan (Q. al-An‘ām 6: 113) or be “without understanding” ( al-Anfāl 8: 24).

At this juncture, it is important to bear in mind that the ability to distinguish between what is ḥaqq (truth, real) or ma‘rūf (right, good, beneficial, acceptable) and bāṭil (false) or munkar (wrong, bad, harmful, objectionable, rejected) is an essential skill in the life of a Muslim. But what makes it difficult sometimes to distinguish good from evil is when the lower self, the al-nafs al-ammārah bi‘s-sū comes into play to blur the distinction or to weaken the positive influence of the ‘`aql. The lower self which always instigates the human being to commit evil deeds can easily be exploited by Satan in his war against the Believers and the forces of good. Knowing this unique nature of the qalb would help Muslim educators, leaders and parents to give proper attention to the holistic growth, development and elevation of the qalb.

It is important to know, first, that Allah S.W.T. does not use the word ‘`aql (intellect, intelligence, reason) as a noun in the Qur'an, although it exists in the Arabic language. Rather the All-Knowing, the All-Wise Creator-Sustainer uses the verbs “ya`qilūn” (they understand, comprehend or they reason), “na`qilūn” (we understand, we use our reason) and “yafqahūn” (they understand, comprehend) as actions and functions of the qalb. The following two verses need to be studied carefully:

Have they not travelled through the earth, and have hearts [qulūb] by which they could reason/gain wisdom or understanding [ya`qilūn], and ears by which they could hear? For indeed, it is not their eyes that have become blind but it is the hearts [qulūb] that are in their breasts that have become blind! (Q. al-Ḥajj 22: 46)

And certainly many are the invisible beings and humans We have made for hell who have hearts [qulūb] with which they understand not [lā yaqfahūna bihā] (or fail to grasp the truth), and eyes with which they fail to see [la yubṣirūna bihā], and ears with which they fail to hear [la yasma`ūna bihā]. They are like cattle - no, they are [even] more misguided: it is they, they who are the [truly] heedless [of warnings]! (Q. al-A`rāf 7: 179).

The explanation given by Abdullah Yusuf Ali on the Qur’anic meaning of qalb is most enlightening:

The word for "heart" [qalb] in Arabic speech imports both the seat of intelligent faculties and understanding as well as the seat of affections and emotions. Those who reject Allah’s Message may have their physical eyes and ears, but their hearts are blind and deaf. If their faculties of understanding were active, would they not see the Signs of Allah’s Providence and Allah’s Wrath in nature around them and in the cities and ruins if they travel intelligently? (Abdullah Yusuf Ali n.d. 964)

On verse Q. al-A`rāf 7:174, Abdullah Yusuf Ali says that “Though they have apparently all the faculties of reason and perception, they have so deadened them that those faculties do not work, and they go headlong into Hell. They are, as it were, made for Hell.” (Abdullah Yusuf Ali n.d. 459).

We would like to add here, with regard to maintenance of mental well-being, that one of the five principal objectives of the Shari`ah is the ḥifdh (preservation, the protection and the sustainability) of the sound `aql. With sound reason being grounded upon true īmān and taqwā, the human mind knows and remembers its Compassionate Master and operates in accordance with the will of the Master, like the the mind of the true scholars (‘ulamā’ with khasyah -- awe and fear -- of Allah’s wrath and displeasure in Q. Fatir 35: 28) and the God-oriented mind of true Believers and the Ulu’l-Albāb in Q. Āl ʾImrān 3: 190-194). However, under the steady influence and dominance of secular education and culture, secularised media and ICT, and secularised science and technology of contemporary secular humanistic civilisation, the `aql and thinking of many Muslim students, academics, scholars, professionals, economists, politicians and national leaders have been uprooted from the anchor of īmān and taqwā and freed from divine guidance. The Muslim `aql then becomes a creature which transgresses all divine and religious limits on human freedom. It is transformed into an independent source of relativistic or speculative knowledge, and serves as an instrument of intellectual arrogance, ostentation, oppression, dehumanisation, injustice, agnosticism, cynicism, nihilism and relativism – these are some of the root causes of contemporary problems of depression, anxiety, despair, Islamophobia and meaninglessness among the younger generation of Muslims.

Under these circumstances, the `aql becomes impervious to divine light of wisdom and enlightenment, and the qalb in which the cognitive rational faculty resides becomes hardened. At this stage the qalb then deserves to be “sealed” as Allah S.W.T. says: “their hearts were stamped so they do not understand/comprehend” (Q. al-Taubah 9: 87; Q. al-Munāfiqūn 63: 3) and “Allah stamped their hearts so they do not know (have knowledge)” (Q. Taubah 9: 93).

4. THE NEGATIVE IMPACT FROM THE EXTERNAL FORCE OF SATANIC FORCES

Now we come to a very important matter related to the inner spiritual struggle of human beings to reach the goal of al-falāḥ or comprehensive and holistic well-being, which is rarely discussed in mainstream intellectual discourses or mainstream human development modules; i.e. the disruptive and deviationist role of an unseen (like the Coronavirus) “PERPETUAL VIRUS” in human life, culture and civilisation coming from highly intelligent but invisible Forces of Evil which have the ability to do, among other things, the following:

(a) Camouflage or disguise what is munkar as ma`rūf, failure as success, falsehood (bāṭil) as truth (ḥaqq), vice (radhīlah) as virtue (faḍīlah), misery as blessing, poison as honey, or divine wrath as divine pleasure;

(b) Convert the less educated Muslim masses or confused Muslim youth, students or young professionals to believe in polytheistic supernatural forces, or to become followers of hedonism, nihilism, relativism, post-modernism, neo-liberalism or neo-atheism;
(c) Lead Muslim traditional rulers, political leaders (including Prime ministers, Ministers, and Members of Parliament), policy makers, business and industry players, senior civil servants, law enforcement (including the judiciary) and immigration officers, to be involved in practices of cheating, fraud, scandalous deals, corruption of all kinds, abuse of authority, cronyism, collusion, favouritism and cronyism.

d) Make Muslims believe that since Allah S.W.T. is All-Merciful and All-Forgiving, Muslims can afford to indulge in some kinds of munkar or sinful acts, because they would eventually be forgiven by their Compasionate and Merciful Master. They could also plan to perform Hajj or `Umrah in the distant future when they would make the necessary taubah (repentence) sincerely with all their hearts, and seek forgiveness most of the time while performing pilgrimage, as a Hajj that is accepted (mabrūr) by Allah S.W.T. would absolve them of all their sins.

e) Instil and develop in young Muslim personalities or middle-age professionals or government servants, the popular Malay expression of "tidak apa" "Ok lah", thus reflecting the attitudes or mindsets of complacency, laxity, mediocrity, irresponsibility as well as the tendency to procrastinate or to defer doing good deeds, including acts of seeking divine forgiveness (istighfār), taubah or Hajj to a much later date in one’s life. In the meantime, it should be quite O.K., they think, to “make hay while the sun shines”.

f) Inject into the mind and psyche of Muslims the idea -- later to become a firm conviction -- that there is no need to worry too much about the Hereafter; instead Muslims should concentrate on achieving material progress in their worldly life so as to be on par, if not better, than the Western standards of living, by imitating or adopting their models, systems or theories.

We know from the Qur’an and the Sunnah that Iblīs and Satan are capable of conjuring much more lethal, yet subtle, techniques or strategems to lead Muslims and others astray from the path of the true Believers, the path that would lead to true goodness and well-being conditions in the world and true happiness in the Hereafter. Adult Muslims, including religious scholars, intellectuals and students can certainly learn more about the subtle techniques of Satan from the chapter on “Condemnation of Deception” (Dhamm al-Ghurūr in Book 3) of al-Ghazālī’s Iḥyā’ Ulūm al-Dīn in order to be better prepared to avert the deadly spiritual diseases of pride and arrogance, desire for human adoration or appreciation, and the deadliest disease in the form of self-admiration or conceit (’ujb), which is considered to be a form of hidden shirk – associating things other than Allah S.W.T. as an object of worship.

The avowed aim of the Iblis and Satan is to take all human beings, if they could, along with them onto the outwardly attractive, appealing and seductive trajectories of human, societal or civilisational development which are designed to lead humans into the deep chasms of miseries in life on earth and life after death. Therefore we need to study and understand profoundly some relevant verses of the Qur’an regarding our antagonistic relationship with the unseen evil force. Allah S.W.T. declares that Satan is an ‘Aduwwun Mubīn (An Obvious Enemy) in the following verse:

> O mankind! Partake of what is lawful and good on earth, and follow not Satan’s footsteps: for, verily, he is your obvious enemy [’aduwwun mubīn] and he bids you only to do evil, and to commit deeds of abomination, and to attribute unto God something of which you have no knowledge. (Q. al-Baqarah 2: 168-169)

Let us now look at those verses which reveal: (a) the historical background of the fatal disobedient act of Iblis which prompted him to plan for the vindictive spiritual destruction of the human species until the Day of Resurrection, and (b) what he and his armies have decided to do to spread their mischievous influence among mankind with the permission given by Allah S.W.T. and (c) what Allah S.W.T. had said upon hearing the evil strategies proposed by Iblis:

> And We have certainly created you [O mankind] and given you [human] form. Then We said unto the angels, "Prostrate yourselves before Adam!" - whereupon they [all] prostrated themselves, except for Iblis: he was not of those who prostrated. (Q. al-A`rāf 7: 11)

> [And God] said: "What has prevented you from prostrating when I commanded you?" Answered [Iblis]: "I am better than he: You have created me out of fire, whereas You have created him out of clay."

(Q. al-A`rāf 7: 12)

In Sūrah al-Isrāʾ (17) verse 62, Iblis added:
Tell me, is this [foolish being, Adam] the one whom You have exalted above me? Indeed, if You will but allow me a respite till the Day of Resurrection, I shall most certainly cause his descendants - all but a few - to obey me blindly! (Q. al-Isrā’ 17: 62)

[God] said: "Descend then from this [Paradise] - for it is not for you to show arrogance here! So go out, then: indeed, you are of the debased!" (Q. al-A`rāf 7: 13)

[Iblis] said: "Grant me a respite till the Day when all shall be raised from the dead." (Q. al-A`rāf 7: 14) [And God] replied: "Indeed you shall be among those who are granted a respite." (Q. al-A`rāf 7:15) [Whereupon Iblis] said: "Now that You have sent me astray, I shall most certainly lie in ambush for them all along Your straight path. (Q. al-A`rāf 7:16) Then I shall most certainly fall upon them from before them and from behind them [openly as well as in a manner beyond their ability to understand], and from their right and from their left: and You will not find most of them grateful to [You]" (Q. al-A`rāf 7:17).

In verse 42 of Sūrah al-Ḥijr (15) Allah S.W.T. assures that “Indeed, you shall have no power over My creatures - unless it be those who are [already] lost in grievous error and follow you [of their own will]” (Q. al-Ḥijr 15: 42). This means that although Allah S.W.T. has given the permission to Iblīs and his army to tempt human beings and cause havoc in inter-human relations, they would have no power to seduce those who are truly conscious of God. It would also appear from Allah’s responses in the dialogue that despite Iblīs’s ostensible rebellion against his Creator, he and Shaitān would play a role of “the eternal tempter who enables man to exercise his God-given freedom of choice between good and evil and, thus, to become a being endowed with moral free will” (Muhammad Asad 2011: 463).

[And God] said: "Go out from here, disgraced and disowned! [And] as for those among them who follow you - I will most certainly fill hell with all of you! (Q. al-A`rāf 7: 11-18).

Verse 64 of Sūrah al-Isrā’ (17) provides an additional statement by Allah S.W.T. :

[God said] Entice, then, with your voice such of them as you can, and bear upon them with all your horses and all your men, and be their partner in [all sins relating to] worldly goods and children, and hold out [all kinds of] promises to them: and [they will not know that] whatever Satan promises them is but meant to delude the mind. (Q. al-Isrā’ 17:64)
Allah S.W.T. gives His assurance by saying: “[And yet,] behold, you shall have no power over [such of] My servants [as place their trust in Me]: for none is as worthy of trust as thy Sustainer.” (Q. al-Isrā’ 17:65) In another verse Iblīs openly reveals, at this point, his mischievous plan:

_I shall indeed make [all that is evil] on earth seem goodly to them, and shall most certainly beguile them - into grievous error – (Q. al-Hijr 15: 39)_

But, _Iblīs_ did mention an exception as follows:

_[I will beguile all], Except those among them, who are Your sincere servants!” (Q. al-Hijr15:40),_ meaning that there would be, among human beings, “those who are so deeply conscious of Allah S.W.T. that no "blandishment of Satan" can lead them astray”. (Muhammad Asad 2011: 462)

In order to know more about this ever-present, pervasive and spiritually-ethically destructive influences of the strategems of _Iblīs_ and Satan, it would be useful for leaders of the Muslim community to be able to benefit from the insights and wisdom of our foremost spiritual masters and savants, such as al-Imām al-Ghazālī (1058/1059-1111 C.E.) particularly in his _Min `ajā‘ib al-Qalb_ (Wonders of the Heart) in which he describes in detail the eleven great gates or doors through which Satan enters the _qalb_ of human beings (al-Ghazālī 2007: 106-135); Ibn Qayyim al-Jauziyyah (1292–1350 C.E.) in his _Ighāthat al-Lahfān min Maṣā‘īd al-Shaitān_ (Aid for the Yearning One in Resisting Satan) and in _Talbīs Iblīs_ (Deceit of _Iblīs_ ) of Ibn al-Jauzī (1116-1201 C.E.). They have taken great pains to write important ground-breaking treatises to educate Muslims masses as well as scholars on the lures, seductions, delusions, deceptions, traps and machinations, manufactured by Satans to deceive all kinds of human beings, in order to distance them from obedience to Allah S.W.T. and make them sin against God or become their followers or slaves.

Al-Ghazālī (2007: 106-135) states that there are seven physical organs of the body which are capable of becoming tools for generation sinful acts which serve as the external gates to the heart of man. Those organs are (1) tongue; (2) eyes; (3) ears; (4) hands; (5) private parts; (6) stomach; and, (7) feet. But there are eleven major invisible inner gates of the heart by which Satan gains deeper penetration into the soul of human beings to corrupt and create diseases in it. Those major non-material gates are: 1) anger and appetance; 2) envy (hasad) and greed (hirş); 3) satiety (shaba’) of food; 4) love of material adornment; 5) covetous desire (tama’); 6) haste and lacking steadfastness; 7) love of material wealth and possessions; 8) stinginess and fear of poverty; 9) sectarian and partisan prejudices; 10) inducing the common people to indulge in abstract theological issues about the essence and attributes of God; 11) thinking ill of other Muslims (sū’ al-ẓann bi’-muslimīn).

Al-Ghazālī says that the way to overcome these personal shortcomings is to close the gates by cleaning the heart and through the constant remembrance of Allah S.W.T. (al-Ghazālī 2007: 122-123)

5. ISLAMIC SPIRITUAL MEANS OF ADDRESSING PSYCHOLOGICAL DISORDERS.

In overcoming some cases of psychological disorders, Muslims are taught to seek divine assistance from the Compassionate Creator, Omnipotent Master and Beneficent Sustainer, because He alone has the power to solve all human problems. Believers are being advised by the Compassionate Sustainer to seek help from Him by means of internalising the virtue of patience and perseverance (ṣabr) and the channel of direct communion and communication with Him via prayer (al-ṣalāh) and supplication. He has given this great advice to all His believing servants, because He S.W.T. is with those who persevere with self-restraint, patience and sincere prayer to Him S.W.T. alone:

O you who do believe! Seek help and assistance (in your affairs) from sabr (patience, perseverance, self-restraint and constancy) and from prayer, for surely Allah is with those who have patience and perseverance. (Q. Al-Baqarah 2:153)

Allah S.W.T. Himself urges human beings to make supplications to Him and He would respond accordingly:
(O Muhammad), when My servants ask you about Me, tell them I am quite near; I hear and answer the call of the caller whenever he calls Me. Let them listen to My call and believe in Me; perhaps they will be guided aright. (Q. al-Baqarah 2:186)

And your Lord says, "Call upon Me; I will respond to you." Indeed, those who disdain My worship will enter Hell [rendered] contemptible (Q. Ghâfir 40: 60)

Allah S.W.T. reveals to all human beings that Allah waits for any one to call upon Him in order to respond positively at a particular time at night:

Abu Huraira narrated: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings be upon him, said, “Our Lord descends to the lowest heaven in the last third of every night, and He says: Who is calling upon Me that I may answer him? Who is asking from Me that I may give him? Who is seeking My forgiveness that I may forgive him?

(Reported by both al-Bukhârî and Muslim)

The Prophet (s.a.w.) has also said: "There is no disease that Allah has created, except that He also has created its treatment" (Reported by al-Bukhari, Book 71). As Muslim academics, psychologists or counsellors, we ought to remember and inform our students, colleagues or members of the public who are having mental well-being problems... the well-known hadith quoted below that Allah SWT runs to His servants while they walk to him;

- عن أبي ذر قال قال رسول الله صلّى الله عليه وسلم يقول الله عزّ وجلّ من جاء بالحسنة فله عشرين أمثالها وأزدي و من جاء بالسيئة فجرأوته سيئة مثليها
- أو أعفني ومن نقرب مني شبرًا تقربت منه ذراعًا ومن تقرب مني ذراعًا تقربته منه ياعا
- ومن أنا إلى يمشي أنثيـه هزولة ومن ليقيني يفرّب الأرض خطيئة لا يشرك بي شيئًا ليقينه بمثليها مغفرة

Abu Dharr reported: The Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings be upon him, said, “Allah Almighty says: Whoever comes with a good deed will have the reward of ten like it and even more. Whoever comes with an evil deed will be recompensed for one evil deed like it or he will be forgiven. Whoever draws close to me by the length of a hand, I will draw close to him by the length of an arm. Whoever draws close to me the by length of an arm, I will draw close to him by the length of a fathom. Whoever comes to me walking, I will come to him running. Whoever meets me with enough sins to fill the earth, not associating any idols with me, I will meet him with as much forgiveness.” (Source: Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim 2687)

When a Muslim acquires, through the spiritual connection with the Compassionate Master, the attributes of Believers and develops those attributes into habits of the heart of Believers, he or she will be able to get the spiritual, moral or emotional nourishment his or her soul needs from the Caring Master, because the Master promises in many verses of the Qur'an that he would be with the true Believers and bestow him/she the kind of knowledge and skills he/she requires to overcome any personal problems or mental challenges in life. The Compassionate Master has promised in no uncertain terms in the Qur'an that He will surely assist the Believers who possess true faith (īmān) and God-fearing (taqwā) qualities in ways that could never be provided by other creatures of the Master-Creator. He assures the believing servants that He is always with (ma‘īyyah) the patient and perseverent servants, with the God-fearing (muttaqūn) and the benevolent servants (muḥsinūn). It is remarkable that the virtue of taqwā in the personality of a Muslim or Muslimah would produce solutions to different kinds of interpersonal problems in the life of Muslims. The Arrayan Institute has summarised in a very attractive way the wonderful consequences of taqwa in the following way:

1. Ease in matters

   “And whoever fears Allah, He will make for him ease in his matter.” (Qur’an 65:4)

   Almighty Allah mentions the above verse in Surah At-Talaq ... Whoever has Taqwa, Allah makes matters easy for him in this world as well as the next. This does not necessarily mean that the person will not face difficulty, but through the blessings of his Taqwa, he is guaranteed ease and the strength to bear these difficulties without losing faith or hope.

2. A way out of problems and difficulties

   “And whoever fears Allah, He will make for him a way out.” (Qur’an 65:2)

   Taqwa serves as a divine guard against trials of this world as well as the difficulties of the hereafter. We see an example of this in the Quran where, in the story of Khidr (alayhissalam), it was the righteous nature of the father that saved his sons from loss even after his death. The Quran says: “As for the wall, it belonged to two orphan boys in the town; and there was under it a treasure belonging to them; and their father was a righteous man, and their Lord intended that they should attain their age of full strength and take out their treasure as a mercy from your Lord (Quran 18:82).

3. Unexpected sustenance

   “And He will provide for him from sources he could never imagine.” (Qur’an 65:3)

   Almighty Allah is the Creator, Sustainer and Nourisher of the universe. Whatever a person requires and desires of sustenance can be found in His vast treasures. The divine promise is that the God-fearing will be sustained from sources they would never perceive to receive sustenance from. The Noble Quran reiterates this in another verse: “And if the people of the towns believed and had Taqwa, certainly We should have opened for them blessings from the heavens and the earth.” (Quran 7:96)

4. Ability to distinguish truth from falsehood

   “O you who believe! If you fear Allah, He will grant you a criterion (furqan).” (Qur’an 8:29)

   When a believer sees to it that his obedience to Allah and love for him stay above everything else, he is gifted by Allah with furqan (such insight that leaves no doubt between truth and falsehood). Every matter becomes clear in his mind and when he is faced with confusing situations of the heart, he will be guided to the light. In the Noble Quran, the day of the Battle of Badr has been termed “Yawm-al-Furqan” (the day of distinction). This was a decisive day in the history of Islam that proved that no enemy can destroy a people who have the support of Allah and such individuals will be successful in all missions they undertake.

5. Tranquility

“It is He (Allah) who sent down tranquility into the hearts of the believers.”
(Qur’an 48:4)

Calmness and tranquility are sought after states in the daily rat-race of life. These are bounties from Allah which are specifically focused towards the hearts of the true believers. People seek solace in material items, sports, relationships and some even seek it in sin and vice, whereas the true solace that the heart craves can only be acquired from the creator of the heart himself. When a servant attaches his heart, actions, longings and aspirations to Allah, Almighty Allah sees to his affairs and keeps him in a state of peace which even those with abundant worldly wealth envy. The Quran says: “Those who believed and whose hearts are assured by the remembrance of Allah. Unquestionably, by the remembrance of Allah hearts are assured.” (Quran 13:28)

Besides the above benefits of adopting Taqwa, the Lord of great bounty has many more long term benefits in store for the righteous believers. The high status of the people of Taqwa is mentioned in various verses of the Noble Quran, one of which will suffice for all.

“For those who have Taqwa there is Triumph (Paradise).” (Qur’an 78:31)

A frequent supplication of the Messenger of Allah ﷺ was: “O Allah! Instill righteousness in my soul, and purify it as You are the best to purify it, You are its Guardian and Protecting Friend.” (Muslim) (https://rayyaninstitute.com/5-benefits-of-adopting-taqwa).

Another observation on the conditionalities of efficacious taqwā is worth quoting

Taqwa requires constant work, a constant state of awareness of your actions and rectification of any lapses. Taqwa forms the waypoints on the journey towards Allah (swt). It is through moving up the ranks of Taqwa that one moves closer to Allah (swt). You move up through these waypoints by the way of zuhud, doing away with the pleasures of this world. One at a time. Taqwa isn’t a static state but it’s an upward battle where you progressed through different states. You begin with abandoning the major sins, then you move to abandoning the minor sins and you keep progressing in your taqwa until you reach the state of the awliya where your needs and desires are completely aligned with those of Allah (swt). (https://www.reddit.com/r/islam/comments/7d7wmc/and_whosoever_has_taqwa_of_allah_swt_he_will_make)
Dr Zohair Abdul-Rahman explains in an article on the importance of spiritual intelligence that:

The Islamic spiritual tradition contains a wide variety of practices and beliefs that can be analyzed for therapeutic benefit. Rather than presenting a comprehensive overview, we have elected to focus on one prescribed practice for anxiety and depressive symptoms: a specific dua (prayer) designed to ward off anxiety and depression (Zohair Abdul-Rahman 2017).

The Prophet (s.a.w.) said,

Whoever is afflicted with grief or anxiety, then he should supplicate with these words, ‘Oh Allâh, certainly I am your slave, the son of your male slave and the son of your female slave. My forehead is in Your Hand. Your Judgment upon me is assured and Your Decree concerning me is just. I ask You by every Name that you have named Yourself with, revealed in Your Book, taught any one of Your creation or kept unto Yourself in the knowledge of the unseen that is with You, to make the Qurâan the spring of my heart, and the light of my chest, the banisher of my sadness and the reliever of my distress.

He mentions further that:

The second category of diseases of the heart are based on emotional states such as anxiety, sadness, depression, and anger. This type of disease can be treated naturally by treating the cause or with medicine that goes against the cause…And this is because the heart is harmed by what harms the body and vice versa (Zohair Abdul-Rahman 2017).
Examples of Du’a’ as Psychotherapy

There are many supplications practised and taught by Prophet Muhammad (s.a.w.) which are effective in overcoming personal psychological or spiritual disorders. The Prophet (s.a.w.) recommended that Believers should supplicate Allah S.W.T. with the du`ā’ of Prophet Ayyūb (a.s.) who was afflicted with severe disease and poverty, when he called out to Allah S.W.T. “Indeed, adversity has touched me and you are the Most Merciful of the merciful”, or the du`ā’ of Prophet Yunus (Jonah) when he was in the stomach of the sea creature that swallowed him:

لا إله إلا أنت سبحانك إني كنت من الظالمين...

...But he cried through the depths of darkness, “There is no one worthy of worship but You. Glory be unto You, indeed I have been among the wrongdoers” (Q. al-Anbiyā’ 21: 87).

One of the most popular du`as taught by the Prophet (s.a.w.) for people facing serious emotional, physical, mental or psychological disorders is the following:

اللهم إني أعوذ بك من الهم والحزن وأعوذ بك من العجز والكسل
وأعوذ بك من الجبن والبخل وأعوذ بك من غلبة الدين وقهر الرجال

O Allah! I seek refuge with You from worry and grief, I seek refuge in You from incapacity and laziness, I seek refuge in You from cowardice and miserliness, I seek refuge in You from being heavily in debt and from being overpowered by (other) men.

As for the importance of dhikru'Llāh as a means of overcoming personal problems of all kinds, they are too numerous to be listed here. Suffice it to say that it is the quality of the qalb and conduct that Allah S.W.T. looks at in considering His appropriate response. It is not the quantity of dhikr, du`ā’, ṣalāh and munājāt that matters to Allah S.W.T. It is the degree or depth of the Believers’ sincerity, honesty, transparency, steadfastness, optimism and reliance upon Allah S.W.T. and conformity to the Sunnah of the Prophet (s.a.w.) which is the determinant factor in the sight of Allah S.W.T. as the True Healer (Al-Shāfi) of all ailments, True Remover and Most Powerful Eradicator of all worries, anxiety, depression, sadness, pain, sufferings, persecutions, calamities, turmoils, oppressions, jealousies, hatreds, rancour, greed, egoism, subjugations, manipulations, enmities and injustices.

Allah S.W.T. has emphasised the importance of al-ṣabr and al-ṣalāh as spiritual means of overcoming all kinds existential problems, including psychological disorders. The Prophet (s.a.w.) highly recommends that Believers communicate and have spiritual communion with Allah S.W.T. during the period of Tahajjud prayers and at the time of Saḥūr:

الصّٰبرِيۡنَ وَالصّٰدِقِـيۡنَ وَالۡقٰنِتِـيۡنَ وَا لۡمُنۡفِقِيۡنَ وَالۡمُسۡتَغۡفِرِيۡنَ بِالََۡسۡحَار

Men/women who are steadfast, truthful, obedient, spend (in the way of Allah) and implore the forgiveness of Allah before daybreak. (Q. Āl `Imrān 3: 17)

6. CONCLUSION: ISLAMIC SPIRITUAL PERSPECTIVE OF PSYCHOLOGICAL DISORDERS AND MENTAL WELL-BEING IS BASED ON THE FOLLOWING METAPHYSICAL PREMISES:

- The conception of human beings as spiritual-moral beings, with purity of fitrah and rūḥ from Allah SW and the necessity to cleanse and purify the qalb, the `aql and the nafs, with special attention to curbing and conquering the hawā (passion).

- When human beings acquire sound īmān, `amal ʂālīḥ, taqwā and iḥsān, then Allah S.W.T. ensures ḥayāh ܛатьyibah ( the good life). If not there will be khusrān (true loss and misery) and `adhāb (punishment from Allah S.W.T.).

- If human beings choose to follow his/her base desires (ittibā’ al-hawā)، or choose a lifestyle that defies the reminders and advice of Allah S.W.T, thus contracting many diseases of qalb and corruption of `aql, kufr al-ni’mah, (ingratitude with regard to divine bounties), ghaflih (heedlessness), then Allah S.W.T promises a life of stressful existence (ma’īshah ߧенной) without inner peace or tranquility even if they may be financially or materially affluent.
- Corruption and imbalance of nafs, qalb, `aql, rūḥ plus the negative impact of hawā, waswasah al-shaṭīn, ghurūr al-ḥayāt al-dunyā are the spiritual roots of psychological disorders and mental well-being problems.

- Understanding the Qur’anic concept of ghurūr (deception, self-delusion, illusion) and being vigilant against it is an important preventive measure. Ghurūr abounds in this-worldly life and scholars are not spared of the disease either. These destructive maladies (muhlikāt) can destroy those scholars who do not have the fear of Allah’s displeasure and wrath in their hearts. Hence the need to constantly strive to purify the soul or cleanse the spiritual heart to remove the poisonous qualities or toxic elements which are hidden from human eyes, but not at all concealed from the sight and knowledge of Allah Most Gracious. Some of the relevant verses of the Qur’an are:

  • وما الحَيَاةُ الدُّنْيَا إِلَّا مَتَاعُ الْغُرُورُ (آل عمران: 185)
  • وَ ما الۡحَيٰياةُ الدُّنِیَاۤ اِلَّ لَعِب وَ لَهۡوٌ وَ لَلۡدَارُ الَّخِرَةِ خَيۡرٌ لِّلَّذِیْنَ يَتَّقُوۡنَ اَفَلََ تَعۡقِلُوۡنَ
  • The life of this world is nothing but a sport and a pastime, and the life of the Hereafter is far better for those who seek to ward off their ruin. Will you not, then, understand? (Q. Al-An`ām: 6: 32)

  • اعْلَمُوا أَنَّمَا الحَيَاةُ الدُّنْيَا لَعِبٌ وَ لَهَوٌ وَ زِينَةٌ وَ تَفَاخُرٌ بَيْنَكُمْ وَ تَكَاثُرُ فِی الْأَمۡوَالِ وَ الۡوُلَّادِ كَمَثَلِ غَیَّتٍ أَعۡجَبَ الکَفَّارَ نَبَاتُهُ ثُمَّ يَهِيجُ فَتَرَاهُ مُصَفْرًّا ثُمَّ يَكُونُ حُطَامًا وَ فِی الۡآَخِرَةِ عَذَابٌ شَدِیدٌ وَ مَغْفِرَةَ مِنَ اللهِ وَ رِضۡوَانَ وَ مَا الحَيَاةُ الدُّنْيَا إِلَّا مَتَاعُ الْغُرُورِ (الۡحِدِیدَ ۡ5ۡ۷:۲۰)
  • Know that the life of this world is only play, and idle talk, and adornment, and boasting among you, and rivalry in increase of wealth and children. like the example of rain whose (resulting) vegetation pleases the tillers, then it dries, then you see it turn yellow, then it becomes straw. And in the hereafter is severe punishment, and forgiveness from Allah, and (His) good pleasure. And this-worldly life is nothing but a deceiving enjoyment (Q. al-Ḥadīd 57:20)
In conclusion, we would like to explain that our paper has emphasised the importance of overcoming psycho-spiritual disorders by strengthening the spiritual and ethical foundations of the human self and personality, restoring the bond with the Creator and Sustainer of all that exists and instilling the worldview of the Qur’an in one’s lives. We are not suggesting that all psychological disorders, including depression, anxiety, fear or schizophrenia or substance abuse should be or could be solved only by spiritual-ethical therapy or approaches. We recognise that some psychological disorders have their causes in social, inter-personal or biological or emotional factors. In such cases, we would recommend that those suffering from such symptoms first seek proper attention from medical, psychiatric or counselling experts who would address the underlying causes and provide appropriate treatment.

However, as Muslims the patients should also seek divine assistance or Islamic spiritual or supernatural remedies which would complement the medical or counselling solutions, without forgetting that the mainstream secular-based medical and psychological practices have their limitations as well as shortcomings, if not negative side-effects. The reliance on anti-depressant drugs such as Prozac and Sarafem, or the use of drugs such as Methadone to counter the symptoms of substance abuse is one such limitation. The Islamic approach, it should be noted, is holistic but it does not preclude proper medical or psychiatric treatment for certain symptoms or ailments. The Islamic approach is not limited to the biological or social dimensions of mental distress; it goes beyond the material, the biological, the emotional and the social causes. It seeks a complete and holistic solution by understanding the underlying spiritual roots or ailments of human psychological distress or mental disorders with the aim to bring about lasting as well as sound psychological growth of human beings, knowing that human beings are essentially spiritual and moral beings created by God.
