

Do I need to change the Course Code and Course Name (or Course Title) when I review a course outline?

Reviewing course outline does not usually deem change of Course Code and Course Name.

Examples of revision can be either an update on the content of the course outline, or changing the learning outcome.

Changing Course Code or Course Name may be due to standardising course code exercise for the whole programme.

Massive change in the course outline due to change in the direction of the programme or after curriculum review exercise usually led to submission of new course outline altogether i.e. having new Course Code and new Course Name.
